SCHOOL OF NURSING CLASS OF 1969

PROLOGUE

Afoot and light-hearted I take to the open road,
Healthy, free, the world before me,
The long brown path before me leading wherever I choose.

– Walt Whitman; Song of the Open Road

The theme of our yearbook is Freedom Trail – an institution peculiar to Boston as well as being descriptive of our educational endeavors here at the Massachusetts General Hospital School of Nursing. While only a portion of us may have tread along beside the red footprints and red brick line to see the historical sights in Boston, all of us have plodded in black shoes through the three years at MGH, to reach a common goal – that of being a graduate nurse. If those black shoes had left a mark for each step taken in them, surely there would be few places in the hospital where the floors would be uncovered by black footprints.

But now the Freedom Trail has come to an end for us at the MGH School of Nursing and we must split up and venture forth alone on a new Trail. And our steps will no longer be tread in black. Our shoes will be white ones, a tribute to the three years of struggle that it has taken us to achieve our goal.

FRESHMAN

IN DEDICATION

It seems quite appropriate that we should dedicate our yearbook to Miss Petzold because our advent as student nurses at the Massachusetts General Hospital School of Nursing was also her advent as director of this same institution. So simultaneously we, as a class, and Miss Petzold became oriented to our new roles as student nurses and director of the school of nursing, respectively.

And so as we prepare to leave the Massachusetts General Hospital, we take a moment to thank you, Miss Petzold, for your leadership and for sharing with us what we, as professional nurses, will be. We, thank you for being a friend to us, too, by participating in our social events and being available to talk with us. It was your hands that placed our senior caps upon our heads, as you shared with us and our families the thrill of our promotion. Yes, and, Miss Petzold, it's with your guidance that we have progressed to the point where we can prepare to go forth as graduate nurses.

UCTORS

20 Charles Street.

An intermittent buzz, a sea of strange faces, hundreds of trunks and suitcases and dresses on hangers, Mrs. Hibbard's vain attempts to organize were our initial greeting to the building that was to be our home for that longest first year. Here we were introduced to floor meetings, junior proctors, Mrs. Harrison on the elevator, empty Coke machines and the Charles Street crowd of characters. Doubtless 20 Charles Street holds many memories for us all, whether joyful or sorrowful, and even a gaze at the front door of the structure brings these recollections to mind.

DORM

LIFE

"Which witch is which?"

"Have you got the suction set up?"

"Organization has taught me how to fit all that stuff into this bag."

"How many days did you say you had off for Christmas?"

"Do you really want us to believe that?"

"Where was I the night of my 21st birthday?"

"Smokey Robinson is the only way to fly!"

"There must be a better way to make money."

"Come right in!"

"It must be a male! Nothing else gets this much attention."

"There's more than one way to get from Providence to Boston!"

"We're all set for the formal! How about you?"

"Spiked punch? Never!"

"Students in the cafeteria are never this anxious!"

"Passing out A.M. bath water was never so much fun!"

"Did you say you were working this weekend?

"It seems ten miles long at 7 A.M.!"

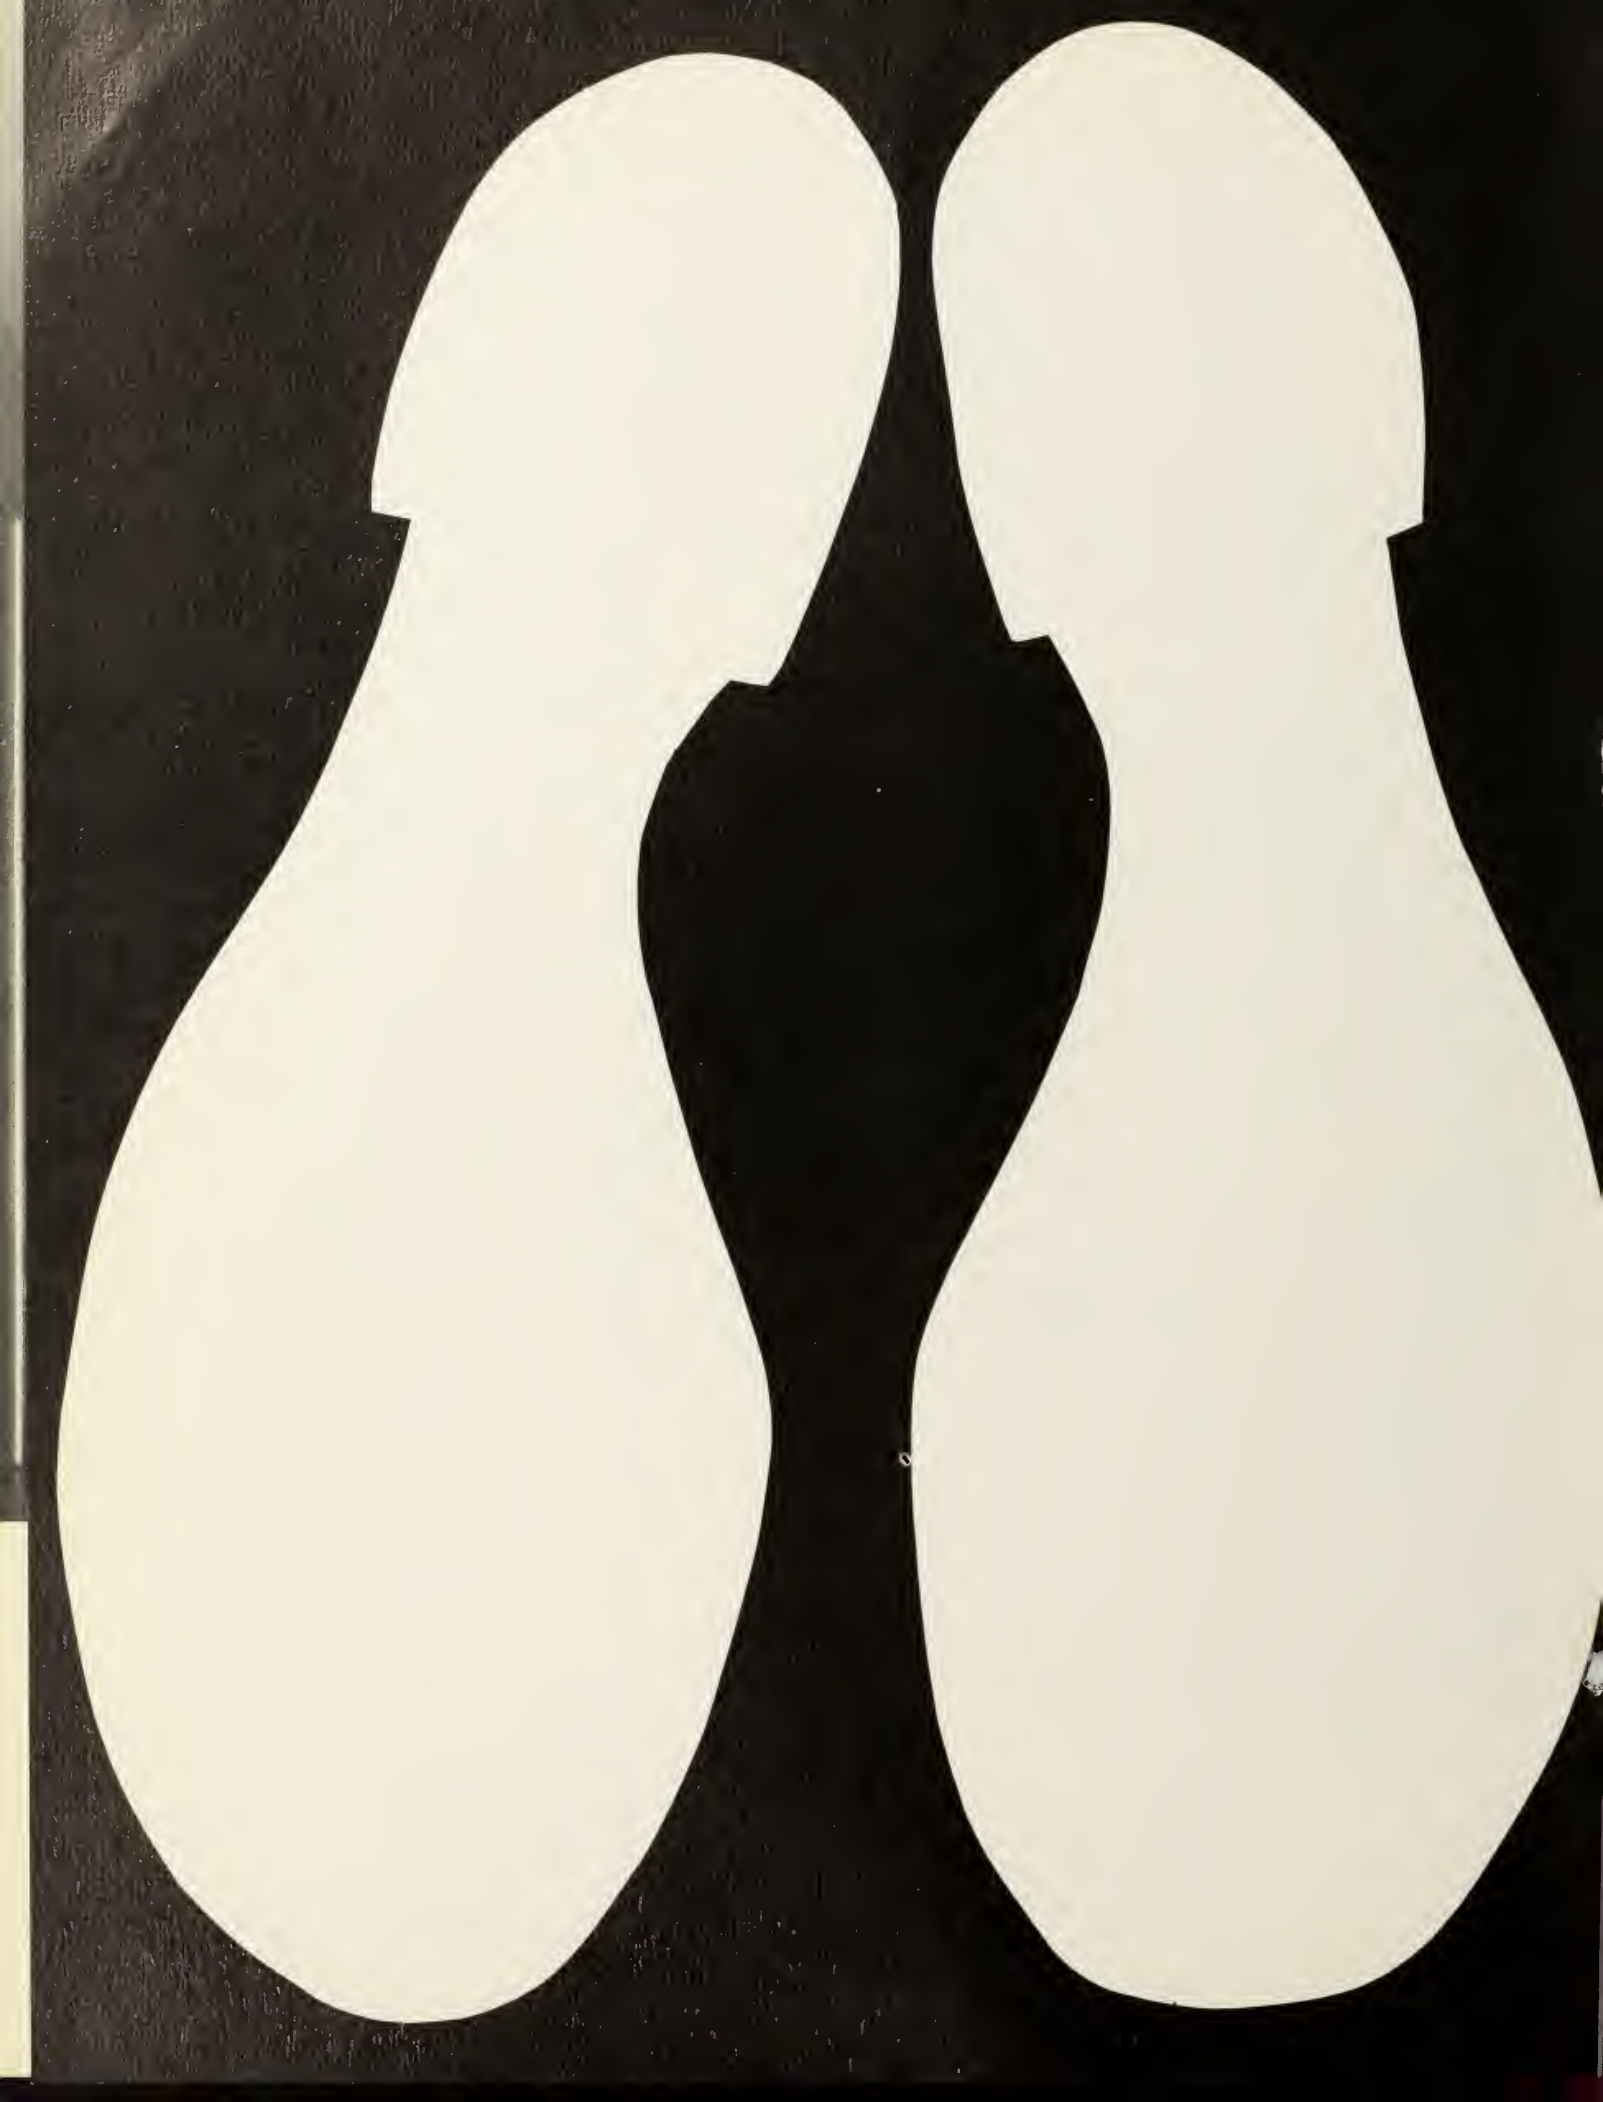
"Tired feet?"

"Do you belong to the 3-11 bridge club?"

"You'd be eating bagels, too, if you had dined at the cafeteria seven nights in a row!"

". . . and I'm a dream to have around the house!"

"Somehow, thinking about Greeks always gives me inspiration."



And now it is August 8th, 1969, and we have traded in our old black "clodhoppers" for clean white shoes. The trails of black footprints have come to an end for us, at the beginning of a multitude of pathways on which one needs white shoes to pass.

A TOAST
by Sally Johnson, Former Director
MGH School of Nursing

May you typify the pin you wear;
With Indian, the star, the olive wreath,
The bow, the arrow, and circle blue
Each day and hour, it's your armour true.

Like the Indian
Have dauntless courage, and watchful be,
Reliant, skillful, resolute and strong;
With patience and enduring valour
Perform your duty in heroic manner.

May the star
Be one of hope, saying "go on, go on."
May it always shine beneath your cloud
With lustre and radiance brightening your day,
Showing you the world, not sad, but gay.

May the Circle
Bring an endless ring of true friendships;
For no one deserves them more than you
Who give of yourselves to those in need
And help them along by word and deed.

May the Olive Branch
Bring Peace and plenty and right good will,
Much inner resource and real content.
Your past has made good history;
May your future bring more victory.
